A Few Days Past

I asked a customer who has been coming in the store from time to time for two or three years, what so impressed him about our store that whenever he wanted a gift item he always came here.

His reply was:

"Well, I always feel sure that I am getting my money's worth when I deal with you."

It is always the policy of the "House of Parr Values" to give full value for each dollar our customers are good enough to spend with us.
